INTRODUCTION

Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that by testing you may discern what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect.
(Romans 12:2)

The haunting fear of AI

AI is here

The coming wave of AI technology will usher in a new dawn for humanity, creating wealth and surplus unlike anything ever seen.

And yet [its] rapid proliferation also threatens to empower a diverse array of bad actors to unleash disruption, instability, and even catastrophe on an unimaginable scale.

This wave creates an immense challenge that will define the twenty-first century: our future both depends on these technologies and is imperilled by them.

- Mustafa Suleyman, in The Coming Wave

1. How should we respond to AI?

Double listening:

We are called to the difficult and even painful task of "double listening".

That is, we are to listen carefully (although of course with different degrees of respect) both to the ancient Word and to the modern world, in order to relate the one to the other with a combination of fidelity and sensitivity.'

- John Stott
